Ramblewood Retreat Center

at Sequim Bay State Park

Ramblewood

The Ramblewood Retreat Center offers groups an opportunity to meet in a beautiful and natural setting in the heart of the North Olympic Peninsula. Situated in a secluded area next to Sequim Bay State Park, the center is only four miles from the City of Sequim. It is perfectly suited for family reunions, student and youth group outings and church gatherings.

The area offers many exciting recreational opportunities for guests. Ramblewood makes a great base camp for exploring the wonders of the North Olympic Peninsula. Guests may harvest clams, oysters and crabs (in season), visit Hurricane Ridge, hike the Dungeness Spit, bike the Olympic Discovery Trail as far west as Port Angeles, visit a lavender farm, take a day trip to Victoria, British Columbia, hike in the Olympic National Park or kayak in Sequim Bay. Other recreational opportunities available include scuba diving, fishing, picnicking and hiking.

The center is open year round, and reservations may be made up to nine months in advance of arrival date. The entrance to Ramblewood is off Highway 101, one-quarter mile south of the entrance to Sequim Bay State Park.

Facilities

Ramblewood has a fully equipped kitchen, with an adjacent meeting and dining area. Kitchen amenities include a gas range with cooking griddle, dishwasher and refrigerators. Cooking and serving ware (including pots, pans, plates and silverware), and cleaning supplies are provided. Folding tables, chairs and other furniture are available and may be arranged as needed. A nice fireplace enhances the cozy feeling of the lodge. Other center amenities include a volleyball court, campfire circle, horseshoe pit, television, VCR/DVD player, projection screen, ping pong table, games and barbecue grills.

Sleeping accommodations at the retreat center include three small cabins, five Adirondack (three-sided) shelters and a sleeping loft in the lodge. The center can accommodate up to 60 overnight guests, with indoor heated sleeping space for 30 guests. There is a modern bathhouse with hot showers.

Flora and Fauna

Wildlife thrives in this environment, making it a perfect spot for the outdoor enthusiast. Birds and mammals are abundant. Eagles, loons, seals, river otters, crabs and sea stars are just a few of the creatures visitors may see.

A cedar grove dominates the forest around Ramblewood. Douglas-fir, grand fir, western hemlock and Pacific yew trees also are found at the park.

Types of groundcover include Pacific rhododendron, snowberry, salal, Oregon grape, sword fern, bracken fern and horsetail grass.
