How State Parks’ Plans
Classification and Management Planning (CAMP)
Why plan?

• Provides a current assessment of park assets and future needs

• Provides direction for land use, trails, interpretation, and natural and cultural resource protection

• Strengthen existing community partnerships and identify new partnerships

• Also doing plans for Palouse Falls, Lyons Ferry, Lewis and Clark Trail and Fields Spring

• Have done plans for nearly 100 state parks
CAMP End Products

• Land classification

• Long-term park boundary

• Park management plan

Steptoe Butte State Park
Land Classification

• Similar to county or city zoning

• Internal to the park and sets use and development intensities

• State park classifications
  – Recreation
  – Resource Recreation
  – Heritage
  – Natural
Long-Term Park Boundary

- Properties that further agency’s recreation and conservation mission
- Identifies agency-owned properties not essential to park mission
Park Management Plan

- Responds to issues and concerns expressed by you and agency staff
- How the agency intends to manage the park’s natural, cultural and recreational resources
CAMPs Four Stages

Stage 1. Identification of park issues

Stage 2. Development of alternatives to address issues

Stage 3. Preliminary staff recommendations

Stage 4. Final recommendations to the Commission
Stage 1 - Issue Identification

What is an issue?

• Anything you think is important for us to consider in our plans

• Anything agency staff think is important and want to communicate to you

South Whidbey State Park Public Meeting
Stage 2 – Develop Alternatives

Exploration of different approaches to address issues such as . .

- Native plants and noxious weeds
- Historical and cultural features
- Recreational use
- Existing and future facility needs

- These alternatives are presented in the second public workshop
